PRODUCT OF LOCAL SCHOOL HONORED

Raymond Mulford, student of the Sequoia Union high school at Redwood City, arrived on the University of California campus last Monday for a week's stay—his prize for winning a recent essay contest by the university for high school students.

Young Mulford is being entertained by a special committee of students; will be taken to classes, shown the university sights, and is to go as a guest of the college to the Big Game.

The winning essay was on the subject: "What the University Means to the State."

The above boy, who is now so signally honored, is a product of Daly City and received his elementary education at the Crocker Tract, where he graduated a few years ago, being the leader of his class and receiving the five dollar mark of distinction. Mrs. Josie S. Frary was his Eighth grade teacher, under whom he did well, but in the previous grades he also had given evidence of his superior ability, having skipped a whole grade.

Redwood City is proud to claim him now, and Daly City is fully justified in taking pride in his achievements.

When his folks moved to the county seat, District Superintendent W. J. Savage mentioned to the school authorities there to pay particular attention to Raymond Mulford, but no great interest was manifested. At present, however, they recognize in him one who has brought quite an honor to their institutions.

The contest in which he was the winner was state-wide, a large number of high school students taking part, and to the winner means fame beyond his home county.

This triumph should prove an incentive to all our boys and girls. Lose no opportunity to make yourself deserving and then some day the reward is sure to find you.

MUSICAL PROGRAM AT GRACE CHURCH

At Grace Presbyterian chruch next Sabbath evening, November 21, there will be music and lots of it. The program for this evening will be entirely of special music. Special numbers by the orchestra, special solos, vocal and instrumental. The public is cordially invited for an hour of real interest, as the program has been prepared to give every one a good time. The Christian religion is the only one in the world with a real song, and there is no better way for men to give praise than in real music.

The Sabbath school last Sunday was fine, and the interest splendid, and the Christian Endeavor program as given by Mrs. Davis was very fine indeed.

If the church cannot help men and women to be happier and to make homes more joyous and add a new hope to life, then it has no mission and ought not to exist. Will you help us to help others? Chas. H. Gatchell, Minister; phone Delaware 1544.

RESIDENT OF DALY CITY MAKES TRIP TO HONOLULU

The following communication has been received at the Record office from Honolulu, under date of November 2:

Arriving in time to witness one of the most picturesque of Hawaiian events—election day—passengers who arrived on the S. S. Matsonia today from San Francisco were given a typical Hawaiian "aloha" by diving boys and flower girls.

Among those arriving was Walter Ulrich, of Daly City, California.

Owing to the great interest taken in politics by the various nationalities enjoying American citizenship in the mid-Pacific territory, Honolulu on election day takes on the appearance of a great carnival.

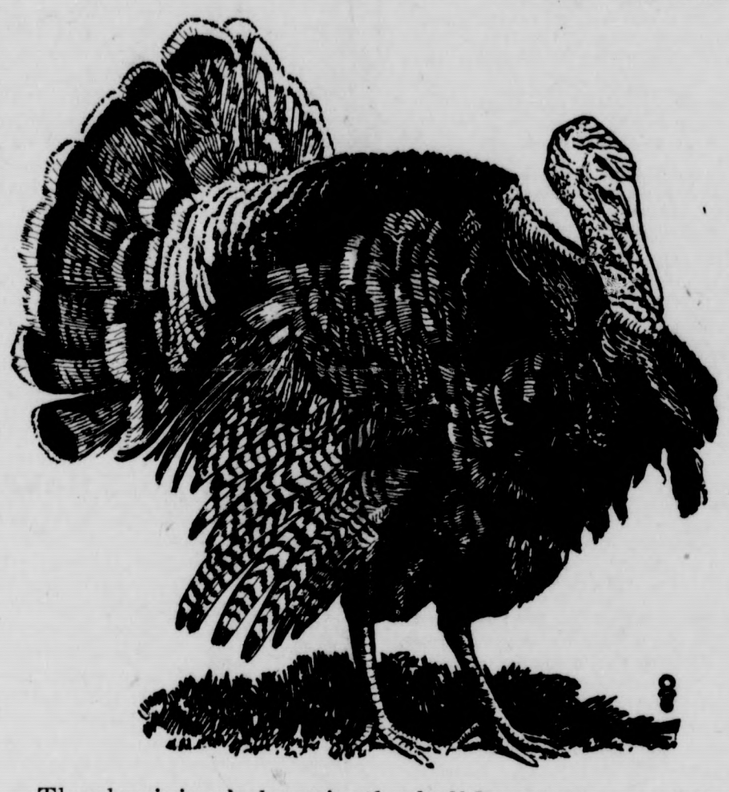
Singing and playing by native musicians, street corner political meetings, and flower leis (wreaths) about the shoulders of the electorate as they make their way to the polls, are some of the outstanding features of the event.

Numerous parades are also held throughout the city, bringing out the costumes and colorful array of all nationalities.

COMMUNITY SERVICE

Daly City Community Sunday school is on the increase. Six new scholars were welcomed on Sunday, November 14. Names as follows: Georgiana Porter, Dolly Hutchins, Eleanor Hutchins, Helen Denk, Beatrice Handy and Peggy Prescott. A high school class of ten is to be formed. On Wednesday the primary classes of Miss McLean, Miss M. Mills and Mrs. Nelson will be entertained by the Sunday school, and supper and games will be the order of the day. Much good work is being accomplished and a fine spirit of co-operation prevails.

We Should Give Thanks



Thanksgiving ushers in the holiday season, and it is fortunate to come so soon after election day, thus healing all the wounds made by the bitterness of campaigns. The victor ceases to exult and feels like offering the hand of sympathy and good fellowship to his defeated opponent. The defeated one begins to feel that what has happened is all for the best, and he sincerely wishes his opponent success in the position he has won.

Generally speaking, the young and old look forward to the Thanksgiving feast as a time when all the members of each family will gather around the same table, forget their troubles, and be happy together. Of course, turkey and all that goes with it must be the star attraction of the dinner.

Thanksgiving is the one great American holiday; started by the Pilgrims to express their thankfulness in finding a home where they were free to follow the dictates of their consciences. It started in a most feeble way, but its popularity has grown with the greatness of America. Today it is no easy task to supply all the tables that call for turkey.

It is a great thing to recognize that with the feast also comes a feeling of gratefulness for the favors that have been showered upon us.

In our whole country, this year has been one of especial prosperity, almost every one having had his share of it. In this city, the year will always be remembered as one during which great advancement was made in general improvement. The hundreds of new homes, nearly all occupied, are what the city is thankful for.

Let us hope that every new resident who has come amongst us feels thankful now, and will always feel thankful for becoming one of our neighbors.

EDUCATORS AND LAWMAKERS HOLD SESSION IN SAN MATEO

A meeting of the prominent educators of San Mateo county took place Tuesday evening at the San Mateo Central school. Among those present were Miss Pansy Abbott and Miss M. A. Trimmingham and Messrs. Roy W. Cloud, George W. Hall, Henry Hall and W. J. Savage.

They met in council with Assemblyman-elect Parkman and Senator M. B. Johnson to discuss proposed school legislation by the legislature of California. Several changes are being considered, some of which would make a great difference in the present system of education, if they are put into effect. There is some doubt whether the difference would result in general improvement or not. The legislators mentioned above were most anxious to obtain information upon the subject, so that they might act wisely when the time for debating and voting comes.

WOODROW WILSON-VISTA GRANDE P. T. A. ACTIVITY

Owing to the near approach of the holiday season, the Woodrow Wilson-Vista Grande P. T. A. has found it necessary to make some changes in its usual business and social program.

Next week only, the Philanthropy Center will change its sewing day from Wednesday to Friday, November 26.

The next afternoon whist, on December 14, will be preceded by a short meeting in place of the regular meeting due December 21.

November has been a very successful month for the association, its various activities netting almost $100.

This Friday the Woodrow Wilson-Vista Grande P. T. A. is participating in the entertainment given for the Federation by Jefferson High P. T. A.

ENTERTAIN FRIENDS

Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Wall entertained a number of friends at a party last Saturday evening. The home was beautifully decorated for the occasion. Games and dancing were enjoyed until midnight, when a dainty supper was served. Among those present were: Misses Marge Finnegan, Madeline Moran, Helen Prince, Helen McKenna, May Finnegan, Audley Dimond, Marge O'Connor, Frances Marcone; Messrs. Jack Farro, Jim Brown, Del Skenle George King, Frank Pine, Joe Chango; Messrs. and Mesdames Bill Moran, Gus Grieder, Richard Stocton, George Lagomarsino, James Lenney, Kirchoff, Harris Peters, Frank Gross, Marcone, W. Fricke, R. E. Wall; Mesdames Silvia Fischer, H. O'Connor.

NEW RESIDENTS

During the past week the following new residents have been added to the population of Daly City:

W. E. Fields, 201 Parkview.
John Moran, 189 Alexander.
H. Filarski, 85 Shakespeare.
P. J. Harrington, 433 San Diego.
John Colbeck, 434 San Diego.
G. F. Jiesta, 64 Crocker.
John Krahn, 199 Alexander.
E. W. Jones, 745 Crocker.

HIGH SCHOOL P. T. A.

The regular meeting of the Jefferson Union high school P. T. A. will be held Monday evening at the high school, at 8 o'clock. The band will play a few selections of their own for the opening number. The speakers of the evening will be Mrs. C. Wisewell, who will speak on "Association," and Mrs. E. T. Eheleben, who will speak on "The Handicapped Child." After the meeting refreshments will be served. All parents and anyone interested in P. T. A. work are cordially invited.

ELECTION HALTED BY PROTESTANTS

The incorporation of Beresford was temporarily halted last Monday at the meeting of the board of supervisors, when seventeen signers of the petition for incorporation asked that their names be withdrawn from the list.

The petition filed with the county supervisors a month ago contained sixty-four names. If seventeen of the signers are allowed to withdraw their names from the petition, it will not contain sufficient signatures to call the election. This was the decision handed down by Chairman John MacBain of the board of supervisors.

The incorporation question was continued one week, pending the handing down of a decision by District Attorney Franklin Swart as to whether or not the signers could withdraw their names.

Nineteen protests against the proposed incorporation were also filed with the board of supervisors.

Attorney J. J. Bullock, representing the advocates of incorporation, asked the supervisors to set the boundary limits, in order that the incorporation might be rushed following their next meeting.

WATER AND POWER ACT MEETS WITH DECISIVE DEFEAT

The water and power act, with its $500,000,000 bond issue, was beaten in every county in the state. The majority against the act, according to latest semi-offical returns, is 388,356, with 96 per cent of the precincts of the state reported. Final figures will probably raise the margin to 400,000.

Two years ago two counties, Sacramento and Plumas, voted for the act. This year Sacramento gave a No majority of 1,724, while Plumas cast an adverse vote of more than two to one, the tabulation with four small precincts out showing only 278 Yes votes against 641 Noes.

This was the third defeat of the big bonding proposal. In 1922 it was beaten by 353,849, and in 1924 by 431,602. The percentage of adverse votes this year was larger than ever, but the majority was held down by the smallness of the poll as compared with 1924, a presidential year.

Aside from thinly populated Modoc county, which went nearly 7 to 1 against the measure, and Alpine, which cast 5 Yes and 33 No, the county that gave the heaviest proportional adverse vote was Orange, where the ratio was more than 5 to 1, the complete tabulation showing: Yes, 3,633; No, 18,716. In Ventura the No votes fell a trifle short of 5 to 1, and San Bernardino was about the same.

Several counties exceeded 4 to 1. Riverside was 4.71, Monterey 4.68, Mendocino 4.40, Kings 4.42, Napa 4.22, and Santa Barbara 4.10.

Among other ratios of interest were: Sonoma 3.63 to 1, Los Angeles 2.98, Santa Clara 2.94, Alameda 2.34, San Francisco 1.98, Fresno 1.92, and San Diego 1.72.

Some of the larger majorities against the act were: Los Angeles, 157,151; Alameda, 38,795; San Francisco, 31,818; Orange, 15,083; Santa Clara, 13,973; San Bernardino, 12,863; San Joaquin, 9,908; Sonoma, 8,335; San Diego, 8,221; Fresno, 8,135, and Stanislaus, 5,412.

Two years ago the San Francisco No majority was 27,000, and that of Los Angeles 195,000.

Four years ago the water and power act polled 243,604 votes. Two years ago when the presidential campaign drew out a big vote, the Yes ballots numbered 320,383. This year, with the count almost complete, the vote stands: Yes, 238,721; No, 627,077.

WEDDING AND BAPTISM AT ST. MAXIMUS CHURCH

On Wednesday evening at St. Maximus church a large crowd witnessed the marriage ceremony which united Miss Marguerite C. Campbell, 401 Wellington avenue, and Victor O. Olson.

Two young people joined the congregation of St. Maximus, Sunday, when John Orville Dempsey, Jr., of Brunswick street, and William F. Sheehan, of Shakespeare street, were baptised in St. Maximus church.

The whist and dance held in the Daly City Auditorium by the St. Maximus Girls' Club was a treat in elegance and high class entertainment.

Pershing School to Entertain

The General Pershing school will give a whist party and dance, or what have you party, on the evening of December 14. It is for the benefit of the kiddies, school and grounds of the Pershing school, so you won't care how much it costs you. Come and have a good time.

BAY BRIDGE WILL OPEN TO TRAFFIC IN NEAR FUTURE

Dumbarton highway bridge, which will divert thousands of people from the San Joaquin valley to the peninsula each month, will be opened for traffic early in December, according to an announcement by John G. Sutton, secretary and general manager of the Dumbarton Highway Bride Corporation.

Sutton declared that the roadway on the peninsula side of the bridge leading to a point near Redwood City, is in excellent condition. The only work remaining to be done is the leveling of the road from the Alameda county side leading to a point near Newark. This work, said Sutton, is being rushed to completion.

The bridge will be 6,305 feet in length. It consists of 226-foot spans with concrete floor over deep water and with concrete trestle approaches. One of the steel spans will lift vertically to permit the passage of vessels.

Sutton pointed out that the bridge will bring thousands of persons to the peninsula who otherwise would probably never see the cities that dot the stretch of land south of San Francisco. Before the bridge was contemplated there was no way that people from the lower San Joaquin could enter San Francisco other than over the Southern Pacific ferries to San Francisco. The bridge will also obviate the long wait at the automobile ferries.

JOE TANKO MEETS DEATH IN PISTOL DUEL WITH POLICE

Joe Tanko, who began his career as a desperado when, with Floyd Hall, he shot down and killed Chief of Police Arthur Meehan at San Bruno, in September, 1923, was shot to death last Saturday in a close range pistol duel with policemen in a McAllister street basement apartment in San Francisco. Tanko fell after he had seriously wounded Detective Sergeants Earl Rooney and Vernon Van Maitre.

The officers did not know that Tanko was in the house, they having gone to the place to arrest another man, and came upon Tanko, who was in hiding in the McAllister street house.

Following the murder of Police Chief Arthur Meehan, who was shot down by the pair when he attempted to arrest them for crashing through the safety gates at the San Bruno Southern Pacific crossing, Tanko and Hall were apprehended in Los Angeles and brought back to San Mateo county for trial. They were convicted and sentenced to life imprisonment. While being taken to San Quentin by Sheriff T. C. McGovern the men attempted to escape near San Bruno, but this attempt proved futile and they were safely delivered to the state penitentiary, San Quentin.

On April 8, 1926, Tanko and Hall effected their escape from San Quentin and started a rampage of robbery and shooting which centered in Sacramento valley. Hall was captured in a Sacramento lodging house, after he and Tanko had killed E. Litzberg, a Sacramento merchant, duing a holdup. Hall was sentenced to hang for Litzenberg's murder, and is now in Folsom, awaiting a new trial, granted on appeal.

Since Hall's re-arrest, Tanko had been traced all over the Pacific coast, but managed to elude capture. Letters purporting to be from him had been received by officers of San Mateo county, where he was first sentenced, threatening death to all who helped in his conviction.

SOUTH SAN FRANCISCO BUILDS MANY NEW HOMES

The satisfactory growth of South San Francisco during the last five years is revealed in Chamber of Commerce statistics, showing that in that period 500 new homes have been constructed in the "industrial city." In addition it is pointed out that twenty-five new dwellings are now being bulit, and that plans for many more are under way.

The increase in home building reflects the industrial prosperity of the city, according to Phil R. Thompson, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce.

Burlingame Boy Badly Burned

Lawrence Caso, 4-year-old son of a Burlingame merchant, was severely burned about his body when his clothing caught fire as he stood watching a bonfire of leaves. Crazed with pain, the boy rushed into the streets, his movement fanning the flames, and but for the quick action of his father, who tossed a coat over him and thus smothered and beat out the blaze, he would have been burned to death.

Little "movie" favorite holds a pumpkin on top of her head just to show how big it is. And all of it for a great big pie for herself on Thanksgiving day.

List Blessings That Call for Gratitude

Thanksgiving is a mental condition, and is not dependent upon the state of one's finances or one's larder. In fact, people are more apt to forget God and His benefits to us when they are enjoying prosperity than in adversity. The well man or woman is not as prone to thank God for health as the sick man or woman to thank Him for returning strength.

Farmers may be thankful this year that they probably have seen the worst of their hard times. When so many people are without work and without homes, the farmer still has his chores and his farm on which to hibernate. Whatever our troubles are, they might be worse. Most of us get more than we deserve. If we could see a daily balance sheet of our credits and debits as our Master sees them, we would undoubtedly feel sincere gratitude for what we have been spared.—Exchange.

THANKSGIVING DAY

Come, uncles and cousins and wives and aunts;
Come, nephews and brothers, no won'ts, no can'ts;
Put business and shopping and school books away,
The year has rolled 'round, it is Thanksgiving day.

The table is spread and the dinner is dressed;
The cooks and the mothers have all done their best;
No caliph of Bagdad e'er saw such display,
Or dreamed of a treat like this Thanksgiving day.

Now children revisit the darling old place,
Now brothers and sisters long parted embrace;
The family ring is united once more,
And the same voices shout at the old cottage door.

The grandfather smiles on the innocent mirth,
And blesses the powers that have guarded his hearth;
He remembers no trouble, he feels no decay,
But thinks his whole life has been Thanksgiving day.

Then praise for the past and the present we'll sing,
And, trustful, await what the future may bring;
Let doubt and repining be vanished away,
And the whole of our lives be a Thanksgiving day.
—Exchange.

WISE BIRD

Duck—My but you're thin, Mr. Turkey.
Gobbler—Yes, I'm on a diet. It's getting too close to Thanksgiving to take on any flesh!

Thanksgiving

Thank God for His favors,
Abundant and deep—
The days for our striving,
The nights for our sleep.

The treasures He gives us
All through the hours,
The gleam of the sunlight,
The perfume of flowers.

The song of the wildbirds
In spring's lovely ways,
The beauties and wonders
We see through the days.

The laughter of childhood,
The home hearth's bright glow,
The sweet ties of kinship,
Friends whom we know.

The harvest so bounteous
That grows in our field,
Filling our barns
With generous yield.

Thank God for His favors—
Today we bow low
And whisper our thanks
For the gifts that we know.
—Katherine Edelman.

CUT OUT WORRIES AT THIS SEASON

Let Thanksgiving Time Be Given Over Only to Rejoicing.

A story which has been told in theatrical circles for many years, relates the adventure of a comedian, long out of a job, who, in fear and trembling, sought employment from a gruff and hard-visaged manager. On being informed of his visitor's errand, the manager wheeled in his chair, fixed the unfortunate actor with a baleful glare and barked out, "All right, go ahead and be comical now. Make me laugh."

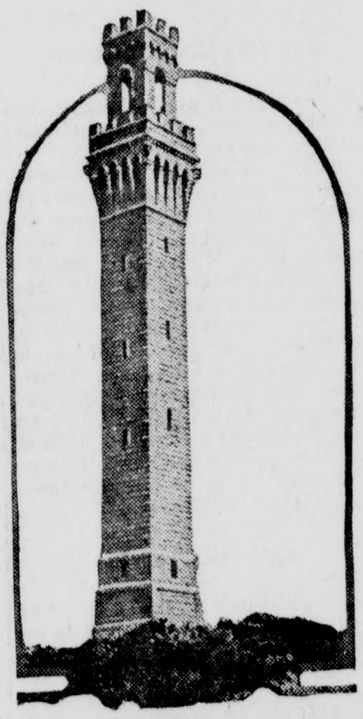
Something akin to the discomfiture of the actor thus peremptorily required to be mirth provoking is often experienced by the citizen when it comes to complying with the official request to be thankful on the annual occasion set aside for that function. He may not feel at all thankful. He may have private griefs and anxieties. He may have domestic worries. He may be oppressed with a conviction of impending national disaster. He may feel it necessary to devote himself pretty exclusively to worry.

Therefore, on being commanded to be thankful at a certain time he is disconcerted and perhaps fails to bring himself into the desired frame of mind.

But it is a good idea, nevertheless. For the precise reason that most of us spend too much time in examining our causes for depression and in dwelling upon the reasons we may have for sorrow, regret or apprehension, it is an excellent thing to be asked at a certain time to remember our blessings.

For we all have them, however much we may permit them to be obscured by our worries. Individually and nationally we have much to be thankful for and a few moments of thought will disclose ample reason for gratitude.

HISTORIC SPOT



Monument marking the first landing place of the Pilgrims on Cape Cod.

Sarah Hale's Good Work

Sarah Josepha Hale, editor of Godey's Ladies' Book, began a campaign of propaganda for having a statute fixing the day for the Thanksgiving ceremony, and through her large influence and that of her magazine she caused so much agitation that in 1864 congress declared that the last Thursday of November should thereafter be a legal holiday.

Since then every President has issued the welcomed proclamation, and on the last Thursday of November the American people follow the advice of Governor Bradford of the early Plymouth colony and "after a special manner rejoice together."

ABOUT WOMEN

Mrs. Dora Sclorenco has been appointed Philadelphia's first woman constable, to fill a vacancy caused by the death of her husband.

Chinese women control and manage the Woman's Bank of Shanghai, a flourishing financial institution.

Mrs. Klara Pal, of Arad, Rumania, who once sat for the noted painter Munkacsy, has just celebrated her 120th birthday.

Miss Maria Urguidi served as secretary and interpreter for a financial mission recently sent to the United States by the government of Bolivia.

Pressing a burglar alarm with her foot, Miss Loraine Zang frightened away three bandits who attempted to rob a bank at Covington, Ky.

Miss Virginia Savoie, one of the most famous of French nurses during the war, recently fell heir to a large fortune and has married an American, W. B. Gordon, a golf club manager.

Face powder and other cosmetics are barred from Esthonia, but the vigilance of customs officers is often ineffective against "bootleggers" of beauty preparations.

Miss Elizabeth Sulzer recently won the Rosseau prize at the University of Zurich, Switzerland, for her thesis on the Romance language, in competition with several male students.

TODAY'S WAGES HAVE GREATEST VALUE

Statistics show that the real purchasing power of wages is today the highest the world has ever known.

In the United States, says the Index, there have been three occasions when prices have abruptly doubled—after the war of 1812, the Civil war and the World war. Following each of the first two conflicts, there was a twenty-five year period when prices declined. In June, 1925, prices stood at 152.3 compared with 100 in 1913.

Henry Armies, of Chicago, was arrested for selling tea adulterated with iron fillings, to increase the weight.

Herbert Strand walked 190 miles from Iowa to Chicago to get a job.

WHEN ONE IS OLD

If years in passing by have dropped
Some snow upon your head,
And other things add evidence
That youth has long since fled,
Seek not to win a youthful mate,
With tastes unlike your own.
You'd better wed gray hairs, by far,
Or travel on alone.

Sometimes Dan Cupid bends his bow
In quite mischievous sport;
Old women fall in love with youths;
Old men young misses court.
And oft as nuptial knots are tied,
The old are booked for woes:
Their mates soon hear the call of youth
In every wind that blows.

Captain of 1926 Nebraska Squad

Capt. Lonnie Steiner.

Playing his second and last year for the Nebraska Cornhuskers, Lonnie Steiner, captain of the 1926 Nebraska eleven, promises to emblazon his name on the list of famous tackles who have performed for the Scarlet and Cream. The list includes such men as Ed Weir, John Pucelik, "Bub" Weller and Vic Halligan. Steiner played with Lombard college before going to the Husker school, thus being eligible for but one year of competition under Missouri Valley rules. Despite the fact that he was only a one-year letter man, he displayed so much stuff last year that he was elected to lead the 1926 Cornhuskers.

Men From 44 States on Notre Dame Grid Team

A recent geographical survey made of the members of the 1926 football team at South Bend shows that the fellow who dubbed the Rockne Ramblers as a national institution was anything but wrong. Forty-four of the forty-eight states in the Union are represented on the big varsity squad. If the freshman and intramural teams are taken into consideration, every state in the Union with the exception of one was found to have one or more representatives.

On the first three teams alone 15 states are listed as the homes of players. Indiana and Pennsylvania lead the list with five each to their credit with Minnesota and Ohio running close seconds. The other localities represented in the first 33 men are Connecticut, Illinois, Michigan, Massachusetts, Oregon, Texas, California, Kansas, Iowa and West Virginia.

The men traveling the farthest to make the team are "Chilie" Walsh of Hollywood, Calif., and Fred Collins of Portland, Ore. The Lone Star state is the home of Duperior, an end of promise.

To Follow His Dad

Young Herschel Cobb, above, aged ten, son of the illustrious Ty Cobb, is going to be a great ball player like his dad or know the reason why. But he wouldn't mind making himself a "Red" Grange on the gridiron, too. Young Cobb, you may have guessed, is red-haired and freckled, quite freckled.

Donohue's Big Record

Pete Donohue, stellar right-handed pitcher with the Cincinnati Reds, has turned in a rather unusual record during three out of the last four seasons.

Donohue has reached the twenty-game figure in victories three times over that period. In 1923 he won twenty-one and last year repeated with the same number. In 1926 Pete hit the twenty-mark in the final game of the campaign, beating the pennant-winning Cardinals. In 1924 the Redleg failed to get in the twenty-tilt class, winning sixteen. He just missed the mark in 1922.

Wants to Pass Thorpe

Harold Osborn, Olympic and national decathlon champion and champion high jumper with a leap of 6 feet 8¼ inches, aspires to break Jim Thorpe's 1912 Olympic achievements at the Amsterdam Olympic games in 1928.

Osborn aims to score 8,000 points in the decathlon events. Under the same system of tallying points the former Carlisle Indian would be credited with 7,800 points for his 1912 triumphs. Osborn is training faithfully for the big doings and is confident he will succeed.

TITLE BOUT HELP TO PHILADELPHIA

Big Improvement Is Seen in the Fighting Game.

Usually when a big race meeting or big boxing match, such as the Dempsey-Tunney affair at Philadelphia, is over, it leaves the city "dead" for some time afterwards—that is, "dead" in a sporting sense.

In the case of Philadelphia, it seems to have been the reverse as regards boxing, for the game, instead of being quiet following the big event, has improved wonderfully.

Pete Tyrrell, who follows boxing closely, is enthused over the way things have turned out.

"Philadelphia is back to normal again," said Pete in a chat the other day, "and the big fight seems to have been of unusual benefit to the game in the Quaker City instead of hurting it, as is usually the case. I would estimate that about 30,000 people of Philadelphia were present who had never attended a boxing bout of any kind before and many of these were antis, but are now converted to the cause.

"Jules Aronson, one of the big promoters, has opened his arena and for its first show the advance sale was tremendous, something they had not enjoyed heretofore. It is very evident that many of these people attending were new patrons of the game and it looks as though boxing will prosper in Philadelphia better than ever before. Whether the game will be benefited in other cities I cannot say, but it is certain that the big fight did the Quaker City no harm; on the contrary it did lots of good."

Fidel LaBarba Close Follower of All Sports

Fidel La Barba, the world's flyweight champion, while making his livelihood out of boxing, is one of the closest followers of intercollegiate athletics on the Pacific coast. The little 112-pound champion can name offhand the stars of eastern football teams which have journeyed to California to compete in intersectional struggles and he can also cite the best performances of the leading track and field athletes.

La Barba is a product of the amateur ranks. He has a high school education and the money he is making out of boxing he is saving for a college education. Although a native of Los Angeles, where the University of Southern California is located, Fidel intends to cast his lot with Leland Stanford, where Glen "Pop" Warner is head football coach.

Jock Hutchison Led Way for Yankees in Europe

In five of the last six seasons golfers from this country have invaded European soil and returned with the much coveted British open championship.

Jock Hutchison started the American triumphs in 1921 when his card of 295 led the jamboree at St. Andrews. Then followed the talented Walter Hagen. Hagen came through with a 300 at Sandwich. That was in 1922.

Arthur Havers, Briton, temporarily halted the United States regime the next season with a score of 295 at Troon. But in 1924 Hagen turned in his second victory over the Hoylake course with a 301. Jim Barnes was the winner in 1925, while this year Bobby Jones, the youthful Georgian, showed the way.

Bill Tilden Speaks on Many Evils of Gridiron

College football is a professional sport and the players might as well be paid for their efforts, in the opinion of William T. Tilden II, former tennis champion, as expressed in an interview in the Harvard Crimson. Tilden deplored what he termed the overemphasis of technicalities in maintaining amateur standing.

Football, the tennis champion is quoted as saying, "commercializes the collective ability of the players, although not the individual. Of course this money does not go to the player but it might just as well, for commercialization presents all the evils of professionalism. The same situation holds in the realm of tennis.

"Therefore if we are to have this commercialism of all sports, why not pay the individual player?"

Drugs Excite the Kidneys, Drink Water

Take Salts at First Sign of Bladder Irritation or Backache

The American men and women must guard constantly against kidney trouble because we often eat too much rich food. Our blood is filled with acids which the kidneys strive to filter out; they weaken from overwork, become sluggish, the eliminative tissues clog and the result is kidney trouble, bladder weakness and a general decline in health.

When your kidneys feel like lumps of lead; your back hurts or the urine is cloudy, full of sediment, or you are obliged to seek relief two or three times during the night; if you suffer with sick headache, or dizzy, nervous spells, acid stomach, or if you have rheumatism when the weather is bad, begin drinking lots of good soft water and get from your pharmacist about four ounces of Jad Salts. Take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys may then act fine.

This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for years to help flush and stimulate clogged kidneys, to neutralize the acids in the system so they no longer are a source of irritation, thus often relieving bladder disorders.

Jad Salts is inexpensive, cannot injure, makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink and belongs in every home, because nobody can make a mistake by having a good kidney flushing any time.

PASSING OF STATESMAN

"Uncle Joe" Cannon is dead. The great American statesman passed peacefully away in his sleep at high noon last Friday, November 12, in the brick mansion at Danville, Illinois, which he built for his bride sixty-five years ago.

Joseph Gurney Cannon, whose long political life was one of the most brilliant ever enjoyed by an American statesman, was born at Guilford, North Calorina, May 7, 1836, and first entered politics in 1861, when he was elected state's attorney of the Twenty-seventh Judicial district, Illinois, holding office until 1868.

"Uncle Joe" first entered Congress in 1873, and for forty-six years was a member of the House. He was elected speaker of the House in 1903, serving until 1911. He received fifty-eight votes for the presidential nomination at the 1908 Republican national convention at Chicago.

He was a wealthy man, the foundation of his fortune being laid back in Tuscola, Illinois, shortly after he hung out his law shingle, in 1858, when he persuaded a brother, William, to join him in starting a bank.

He retired from Congress in 1923, when advanced age rather than any particular physical disability persuaded him that he ought to retire from active life.

"Uncle Joe" suffered only two defeats during his long service in Congress. In 1890 he lost his seat, only to regain it two years later.

His mind faded with his body, and he could recall but dimly, after his ninetieth birthday last May, the scenes with which his long Congressional service was vivid. No wandering memory, however, could keep him inactive, and his last public act, four months ago, was to turn the sod for a new church for the St. James Methodist Episcopal Congregation.

Born a Quaker, he joined the Methodist church after leaving Congress, and each Sunday until recent weeks found him in the pew his wife had occupied throughout her lifetime in Danville.

"Uncle Joe" Cannon was an admired American statesman who fought for the right as he saw it, neither asking or giving quarter in his political battles. He had friends by the legion and being a strong character, naturally made enemies. But even his enemies paid him the tribute of being square in all his dealings, and a man of his word—a typical "square shooter."

Joseph Guerny Cannon has performed a great service for his beloved country, lived a long and useful life, and his passing will be sincerely mourned by the entire nation.

BUSINESS GOES WHERE INVITED

John M. Weekley, editor of the Ennis, Texas, Daily News and four associated weeklies, says:

That if you have anything worth selling, it is certainly worth telling about.

That you can't secure the best results and the most customers unless the public knows about what you have that they need or want.

That the daily and small town weekly newspapers are the best medium through which to make your announcements to the people whom you may reasonably expect to be your customers, because they read their home papers more closely than they do any other publication, and at a time when they have the time to think of what they need, and the inclination to make the investment in the thing needed.

That the business man who waits for people to come to his place unbidden, to make their purchases, is standing in his own light. He will catch a few customers, whereas by adevrtising he can increase his business many times, and thus cut down the percentage of overhead and show a profit which is the goal of every right-thinking business head.

That business goes where it is invited, hence the necessity of keeping your invitation constantly before the public, all of whom are possible customers or friends to those who are, and who may be able to do you a good turn if you make your appeal attractive.

The constant advertiser is the one who gets and holds the business.

The old-fashioned lady who corrected her erring husband with a rolling pin has a granddaughter who gets even more lasting results with an automatic.

It is said that grasshoppers have ears on their legs. If politicians were built like that, they would have less difficulty in "keeping their ears to the ground."

GOLDEN RULE SUNDAY

Citizens of the United States are invited again to unite with the people of fifty other nations in the observance of International Golden Rule Sunday, December 5.

The movement is in the interests of 35,000 children—orphan wards of the Near East Relief—in the Bible lands of Syria, Greece, Palestine and Armenia, a group of tots whom philanthropists believe give promise of one day becoming worth-while citizens and leaders in a land which for centuries has been the breeding ground of great wars.

In a letter to the relief organization, in which he expresses the view that "practical help is the best expression of friendship," President Coolidge has endorsed the Golden Rule Sunday plan.

The day may be observed in any way that may appeal to sympathetic folk—by fasting, partaking of a simple meal suggestive of the fare served the orphans each day in the year, or by serving the usual family Sunday dinner. Whatever the method those who have the Golden Rule in mind are asked to make some contribution toward the Bible land child-welfare work.

The national headquarters of Near East Relief, the organization sponsoring Golden Rule Sunday, is at 151 Fifth avenue, New York City.

The great fund expected to result from the Golden Rule campaign is to be expended in not only keeping Near East orphans from hunger, but in the continuation of an industrial and educational program intended to fit these children for lives of usefulness. In every Bible land orphanage, over which floats the American flag, there is a hum of industry. Orphan boys are being taught crafts and trades. Girls are being trained to make good wives.

Relief workers who come from overseas say one of the difficult tasks is teaching these children to smile. Their parents before them led drab, tragic lives through Turkish persecution, and the children have inherited sorrow. They are beginning to smile, for America has given them hope.

These children worship the United States flag. They are being taught loyalty to country, self-reliance, self-respect and to become self-supporting. They look upon America as their best friend, and seek to emulate the conduct of the best type of Americans.

PROPHETS OF DOOM

While timely warnings against dangerous trends in social, political, or commercial life may be of practical benefit, the chronic pessimism of certain writers exerts an altogether detrimental influence.

An illustration of this is seen in the recent pronouncement by Dean Inge of London, who prophesies the doom of Great Britain as a world power, and other dire calamities.

Another eminent Britisher, Sir Alfred Mond, the chemical magnate, takes the gloomy Dean to task for creating a "defeatist atmosphere," which tends to hamper the efforts of those who are striving to pull the empire through its difficulties. Sir Alfred said:

"It is almost intolerable that men who are experienced neither in finance nor commerce should hinder our efforts when we are trying to hold our ends up."

Great Britain is not the only country which suffers from the doleful whines of prophets of doom. They are heard in America, too, and if we took them seriously, we should sink into the depths of despair. Fortunately, we do not take them very seriously, and those capable of constructive leadership manage to carry on, usually with gratifying success.

HAVE GOOD REASONS FOR GIVING THANKS

The things that you own do not bring contentment or happiness.

Though possession does not of itself bring happiness, lack of possessions is the seed bed producing huge and continuous crops of discontent.

Jack and Jill, sixteen, want a roadster all their own because Jim or Jane possess such a vehicle. Possession of a car won't make Jack or Jill happier; on the contrary, in most cases they'll get into trouble, but lack of a car creates in them a feeling of discontent that drives peace out of the household and poisons family life until it is removed either by purchase or the firm application of the parental foot.

If discontent is largely due to unsatisfied wants, then the United States should be, comparatively speaking, the most contented nation on earth. Fewer Americans lack the necessities, more Americans possess luxuries than the most advanced of the European nations. On the last Thursday in November more turkeys will be eaten, more automobile rides will be taken, more radios will be turned on, more silk stockings will develops runs, more food remnants will be placed in more electrical refrigerators than ever before. As a nation we should be able to give thanks most heartily for the material blessings bestowed upon us.

Yet, are we any happier than Diogenes? All he asked of Alexander the Great, ruler of the world, was that he step aside out of his sunshine.—Sunset Magazine.

DEATH OF HOUDINI

By the recent death of Harry Houdini there passed from the stage one who was perhaps the greatest magician of all time—a man whose mysterious feats led many to believe that he was endowed with a supernatural power.

But Houdini himself made no such claims. He declared that he performed his astounding exhibition acts through sheer physical dexterity acquired by years of study and practice. His ability to escape from a wooden box, wrapped with ropes and chains, in which he was bound hand and foot markable example of his skill, while and placed under water, was a re- he repeatedly demonstrated that he could release himself from any kind of handcuffs or shackles that might be placed upon him.

One of Houdini's latest feats was to remain in a sealed coffin under water for an hour and a half, conserving the oxygen in the small air space by taking short and infrequent breaths.

Much attention was given by Houdini to the exposure of spiritualistic mediums, all of which he denounced indiscriminately as frauds. He made a standing offer of $10,000 to any medium who could produce any phenomena which he could not duplicate through natural agencies. The reward was never claimed.

Houdini wrote several books on various phases of his art, but it is said that the secrets of his most important and almost incredible performance died with him.

During his lifetime he thrilled millions of spectators throughout the world, including many rulers and notables, but his most lasting contribution to the advancement of civilization was his fearless and uncompromising warfare upon charlatanry in all its forms, and its attendant frauds and superstitions.

BIG GASOLINE DAY

Statistical experts have recently compiled some interesting figures concerning gasoline consumption in the United States, which has again broken all records this year.

According to these authorities, careful estimates indicate that June 25 last saw a new high record for all time in the amount of gasoline burned in a single day, or more than 860,0000 barrels. The day was a Sunday, with good weather throughout practically the whole country, which brought out nearly every passenger car in use. The daily average consumption for the entire month of July was about 850,000 barrels of gasoline.

No one can visualize such a quantity, but an idea of its immensity may be gathered from the fact that it would fill 10,000-gallon tank cars enough to make a solid train thirty-one miles long. Think of that as a single day's supply.

The comedy "Stray Cats," which was presented at the New Colma Theatre last Friday for the benefit of Holy Angels church, was very successful. The local young people acted their parts in a perfect manner, due to the excellent direction of Mrs. H. C. Schroeder, under whose management the play was presented. All had worked unceasingly for many weeks to make this comedy the acme of perfection, and their hopes were realized when this excellent performance was presented before a crowded house.

There is much excitement among the candidates for the honor of queen of the big three day celebration sponsored by the Colombo Mutual Benefit Association to be held in Colma, November 26, 27 and 28. There will be dancing each night of the fiesta, at the Colombo Auditorium. On Saturday night the queen will be crowned. Sunday afternoon a huge parade will be held, with beautiful floats and many attractions. This celebration has been an annual feature of the Colombo Society for several years, but the members in charge of the various committees plan to make this affair the greatest of all.

There is no telling what a jury may do, but if forced to hazard a guess it is fairly safe to bet on an acquittal.

CAMPAIGN AGAINST ONE LIGHT DRIVERS LAUNCHED BY STATE

Carry an extra headlight globe.

This safety precaution was reiterated to motorists today by William M. Tudor, manager of the public safety department of the California State Automobile Association.

In addition to being able to replace a burnt out lamp immediately, the recommended safety move, the motorist who carries one or more reserve headlight lamps, if he inadvertantly drives with but one headlight and is stopped by a state motor vehicle inspector, will be permitted to proceed without a citation upon replacing the old globe, according to the new regulations of the State Motor Vehicle Department, it is pointed out.

"Failure to have an extra globe will be considered by the state traffic law enforcement officers as an indication that motorists are not disposed to comply with the law," Tudor says.

This warning was in comment on an order issued by Will H. Marsh, chief of the State Division of Motor Vehicles, calling attention to numerous complaints received regarding motorists operating on the highways at night with only one headlamp lighted.

In instructions to his staff, Marsh said: "If you find that the operator has an extra globe, permit him to change right then and there, as this shows an inclination on his part to take care of a burnt out globe, otherwise he would not be carrying an extra lamp."

HOW MUCH SPEED CAN WORKER STAND

There have been many theories advanced as to the results which will follow Henry Ford's five-day week. Mr. Ford is credited with saying that a five-day week will give people more time for leisure and buying, and that this in turn will make a greater demand for manufactured goods.

This does not explain how a man with simply more time to spend money is going to be able to spend more money with his wages cut from six to five days. The Ford plan does not contemplate six days' wages for five day's work, without increased production.

If idleness is merely to breed the desire to spend more money, the result will be disastrous. Mere money-spending, in itself, without an aim or purpose in life, would be a curse to the nation. Extravagant ideas would be developed which would soon demand artificially high wages, which, in turn, would result in uncalled for increases in the cost of living.

Can any but the strongest and the youngest workmen maintain a pace which regularly calls for six days' work in five days' time, in an industry already traveling at high speed?

It is pretty generally accepted that as production is increased per man, workmen are entitled to their share in the profit, in the form of increased wages. This, in itself, does not mean increased prices.

Whether human activity can be forced beyond a certain point remains to be seen. The life of a racing automobile is short because it runs continually at full speed. Can the human body be driven at racing speed without disastrous results?

There will be a double bill at the State Theatre next Sunday, November 21, when the management of this popular show house will present Tom Tyler in "The Arizona Streak," and Lionel Barrymore in "Paris at Midnight." Both pictures come highly recommended.

It is comforting to Houdini's friends to know that he could always get out of any place he didn't want to stay in.

LOOKS LIKE GOVERNMENTAL INJUSTICE

The post office is the one branch of the government service with which everybody is directly concerned. It is the people's business, and its patrons pay for its conduct in postage, the rates being fixed by Congress. The postmasters in the small communities of the country are known as fourth class. They are not paid salaries, like all other government employes; their compensation is based upon percentages of the value of stamps cancelled on matter mailed out from their offices. The incoming mail is many times greater than the outgoing, and makes the great bulk of the postmaster's work, but they receive no pay for its handling.

A singular condition exists in this branch of the service. The fourth class postmaster is required to furnish quarters for the office, heat and light it, and buy the necessary equipment. From a surYey of the country, the National League of District Postmasters ascertained that 21.8 per cent of the compensation of the fourth class postmasters is expended for these items. A bill is now before Congress that provides for the payment yearly of an amount equal to 20 per cent of their compensation as allowance for rent, fuel, light, and equipment.

The fourth class postmasters claim that it is an injustice to require them to donate, out of their very meager salaries, the things necessary to conduct the government's business. The people living in small communities are entitled to good postal service. Few, if any, know the conditions under which this service is rendered. The salaries of the fourth class postmasters range from a few dollars up to $1,100 a year. When 21.8 per cent is deducted from this for the upkeep of the offices, it appears that the government is not dealing justly with the rural communities.

Congress alone can remedy this, and the National League of District Postmasters is urging that august body to enact the bill now before it. The postmasters are appealing to the public to ask their Senators and Congressmen to enact this bill. Rural carriers are now given an allowance of 4 cents a mile for equipment maintenance. Granting the fourth class postmasters this allowance would only restore to them what they have already spent to maintain postal service in rural communities.

Te bill now before the House post office committe is known as H. R. 4040. The postmasters would appreciate any help the public may give them.

GOOD JUDGMENT INSTEAD OF LUCK

Quite often one hears the expression, "Bill Jones always was a lucky fellow."

When former Governor Cox of Ohio planned a building for his paper, the Miami News, in Florida, several years ago, he checked over the plans drawn by the architects and said: "This building is going to be built in the tropics. Is the construction such that I can get hurricane insurance on it?"

The architects didn't know. Cox told them to find out. The result was that the building had to have additional bracing at the corners. But the cost of this was only $8,000, and Governor Cox got his hurricane insurance.

After the hurricane which wrecked so many buildings, the Miami News tower, said to be the highest inhabited structure in the tropical world, came out with only a few broken windows and some water in the basement.

Was Governor Cox any more "lucky" than the owners of other buildings which were completely demolished or badly wrecked by the hurricane? Apparently, there was no luck about the fact that his building stood. He simply used good judgment which even his architects failed to show when designing a building for the tropics.

We imagin that Saint Peter, too, has some difficulty in thwarting the gate crashers.

CALIFORNIA NEWS BRIEFS

The Lincoln Clay Products company, Inc., at Lincoln, is making a survey for a new clay products plant at a location one-quarter of a mile south of its clay mine and closely adjacent to the town limits of Lincoln. It reserved two railroad track crossings to its property when it deeded a strip of land to the town of Lincoln for a highway, and is now asking the state railroad commission for a relocation for one of these rights-of-way some 550 feet north of a point where the southern terminus of the state highway points the town of Lincoln highway. It is just a matter of greater convenience to the company to enter its plant location at the point noted, which crosses the state highway.

In development of a new theory concerning the origin of the Coast Range Mountains upon which he has been working for several years, Prof. B. L. Clark of the department of Paleontology of the University of California has just completed a paper which he read before the American Petroleum Engineering Society conference at Los Angeles recently and which he will publish shortly. Professor Clark has long supported a belief that the Coast Range mountains were formed by block movements of the earth's crust rather than by folding, as is the general belief, and now he says he has accumulated sufficient evidence to warrant publishing an explanation of his theory.

The old Leland Stanford home at Michigan Bluff, Placer county, declared to be the first California home of Leland Stanford, was inspected by E. C. Bedell, P. E. Goss, former county tax assessor, and Director Louis Ames, acting for the Placer county chamber of commerce, who are considering the preservation of the historic old building. This is following a program of the chamber of commerce to develop the historic possibilities of the county. Michigan Bluff, in the heart of the old historic mining country where the thrilling scenes of the California gold rush were enacted, is unusually well situated, says Bedell, for a summer camping ground.

United States Senator Hiram W. Johnson and Marc Peter, Swiss minister to the United States, it was announced have joined the Native Sons of the Golden West in their efforts to have the remains of General John A. Sutter and his wife removed from Litiz, Pa., to Sacramento, for reburial at Sutter's Fort, California landmark. Alphonse Sutter of San Francisco, a grandson of the general, who was a Swiss, is seeking the approval of all heirs to the plan to bring the body of the pioneer back to the city he founded. Litiez cemetery authorities have declined to permit the removal unless such consent is obtained.

Active construction of the Stony Creek dam near Orland is expected to start at an early date. The proposed dam will create a reservoir of 50,200 acre feet capacity, and will practically duplicate the existing storage facilities of the Orland project, which has been constructed by the reclamation bureau under the terms of the National Reclamation Act. The Stony Gorge dam is seventeen miles below the present East Park reservoir (51,000 acre feet capacity), which has been in operation since its completion in 1910.

Fifty-six years of continuous voting, fifty-four years of which have been in the same precinct, is the record Stephen Quale, retired farmer of Hinters district, Sacramento county, offers. Quale says that he has not missed a state or national election in that length of time, and has voted the Democratic ticket in every election. Coming to Sacramento in 1868, Quale received his naturalization papers in 1870 and cast his first vote in the city of Sacramento the following day. His first presidential vote was cast for Horace Greeley.

The best paying customers of Marysville merchants henceforth will be employes of the city government. Business men, according to word received in Sacramento, appeared before the Marysville city council a short time ago, with the complaint that several municipal employes had unpaid bills, some due for several years. Whereupon the city fathers dug up an 1897 law for precedent and decreed that all city workers who haven't paid their debts by the next meeting of the council will be fired.

A "floating college," to visit the principal countries of Europe during the "summer vacation," is to be held during the coming summer by the college of the Pacific Stockton as a part of its summer school program. Dr. Tully C. Knowles, the president of the college, recently announced. Full college credits will be given to the students making the tour and classes will be conducted in art appreciation, history of English literature, and perhaps speaking and journalism.

Building valuations for the first ten month of the present year in Huntington Park, now exceed the total valuations for the year 1925, the outlay for this year already being $1,269,382, as compared with $1,263,410 for the entire twelve months of 1925. October valuations reached $182,985, the second largest month of the year.

THE CHRISTMAS RIDE

For weeks before Christmas Polly had asked Santa Claus again and again for a sled.

She had called up the chimney to him and had said:

"Oh, dear Santa, please bring me a new sled this Christmas, if you possibly, possibly, can.

"I do hope you can for I want one, so much.

"I'd rather have a sled than anything. I've never owned one of my own.

"The one that was given to me that has been in the family for years, is really too old to use now, Santa.

"I'm sure you'd say so if you could see it, Santa.

"Oh, please do give me a sled if it's not asking too much.

"I'd like a new one, like the other children have."

That was what Polly had asked every evening up the chimney.

She would talk to Santa and send messages to his reindeer and tell him again and again where she lived.

"Don't forget, dear Santa, I live in the white house. It's next to a stone house. And outside, you know, it has two little green posts and there is a hedge in front, too.

"I know you never forget where children live, but I'm just telling you to make sure.

"Oh, dear Santa, I do love you so much. Good-night."

When Christmas came there was a beautiful new sled for Polly which Santa had left.

Up the Hill.

And there was a letter for her, too, which said:

"Dear Polly:

"I have heard all your messages and your talks and they have pleased me so much. I also got your adorable little letter, and was so glad you said you wanted to send me hugs and kisses.

"I nope you will like your new sled and that you will have lots of fun this winter.

"From your affectionate old friend,

"Santa Claus."

Well, you can imagine how pleased Polly was!

It was so perfect to have Santa Claus call her letter adorable, and she was so proud that he was glad that she had said she wanted to send him hugs and kisses.

She would save Santa's letter as long as she lived.

It was such a beautiful letter And Santa's handwriting was so beautiful. Really, it was very, very handsome handwriting. Polly had never seen such handsome handwriting.

Oh, it was fun to have the sled, but the great fun of all was when the afternoon came to have her brother take her for a ride.

He pulled her down the street and up the hill which wound around the side of a lake, and she went for a long, long distance for a ride.

How proud she was to have her brother take her for a long ride on Christmas Day, and it was beautiful out in the cold, clear air.

Everything looked so pretty and the trees were now being covered with show, for it was snowing ever so gently.

The snow rested upon the pine branches and also upon the bare trees.

And as she was being pulled along and enjoying it so much, she also thought how wonderful it would be when she got home.

She could look over all her presents again and the tree would be lighted and the trees in front of some of the people's houses would be lighted, and they would pass them going home.

It was perfect to be pulled along on the sled for a Christmas ride, and it was perfect to think that back at home was a huge, blazing fire, a lighted Christmas tree and presents.

That was the fun of Christmas Day. It was fun to go out and fun to go back home!

Why Not a Janitor?

Margaret, aged seven, loves her daddy. His work takes him away from home sometimes for two or three weeks.

Some weeks ago they, her mother and she, expected him home one Saturday morning, but for business reasons he was unable to get home at the expected time. Naturally she was disappointed.

She looked at her mother, threw her arms around her neck and in a sobbing voice, said: "Oh! mother, why isn't daddy a janitor? They stay home."

THROUGH A WOMAN'S EYES

By JEAN NEWTON

Her Best Friend

"My pocketbook is my best friend," I heard a woman say the other day. "If you have money you can get anything you want. Friends may prove false, children may be heartless, but your pocketbook never goes back on you."

Poor woman, so soured that she does not see the delusion and the snare.

Your pocketbook—of course, it is useful—and necessary. One should hope that more people would realize how essential is providing for the later or the rainy day.

But how many things your pocketbook is absolutely powerless to buy, and without which the things it can buy are impotent to bring you happiness!

One wants to ask the woman who cynically declares it is her best friend, who seems to hold it all-important:

Can her pocketbook buy her help and cheer in sickness? It can bring her medical attention, nurses, dainty food, but can it give her something to get well for, the something or somebody that makes it worth while to fight for life?

In sorrow and bereavement, can her pocketbook buy her sympathy and consolation, can it give her comfort like the soothing of a friend?

In doubt and tribulation can her pocketbook buy her faith, that reassuring light that will brighten the darkest day?

In later years, when the world's excitements wane, will her pocketbook buy her the ties that make life worth while? Will it supply open doors to hearths that welcome her, will it bring loving hearts to give life to her own fireside, no matter how drab and cheerless the day outside?

Will money buy her clinging arms and baby kisses, love, solicitude or devotion? Can money make her "belong."

No. There are things that money cannot buy that are as necessary to feed our heart's cravings as food to nourish our heart's blood. Money cannot buy them—neither can they be gotten for nothing. We must earn them in the heart's coin.

While the fire will not burn without fuel, while we are all happiest providing for and dependent upon ourselves, there are things that money cannot buy and which are in truth our best friends—for they bring us happiness.

Doughnuts, Liver and Bacon

The League of Mothers' Clubs published, the other day, the favorite dishes of President Coolidge, Governor Smith of New York and New York city's Mayor Walker.

The favorite food of the mayor of New York city is bread pudding. The governor of the Empire state prefers above any gastronomical delight the well-known and humble corned beef and cabbage. And the President's greatest treat? Is it filet mignon, pate de foi gras? No indeed; it is just plain doughnuts! His favorite luncheon dish we all know—liver and bacon—but beyond and above even that he likes to eat doughnuts!

What does this prove—that John O'Grady and the colonel's boss are brothers under the skin? Oh no; we knew that long ago. The point that seems to us to merit comment is that three leaders in the country's affairs, men who can afford to indulge any craving of the palate, who can command all the delights of the epicure, enjoy most the simple foods that are within the reach of a day laborer.

The mayor of a great city finds bread pudding a treat; the governor of the richest state in the Union gets his greatest joy of the table out of despised corned beef and cabbage; and with a retinue of people provided to supply his every want, with chefs trained to the finest intricacies of the culinary art, the President of the United States desires not exotic delicacies, but just plain doughnuts!

This is merely a new illustration of the well-known fact that those who can have anything they desire want very little. The tastes of the mighty are notoriously simple. Many people commiserate with themselves for lack of worldly goods and envy others with more material possessions, thinking that those possessions would bring them happiness. If all those people could only be given carte blanche for a short time in the position of one who can command the material enjoyments which loom so important to them, they would soon be satiated and be glad to return, in other respects as in the matter of food, to their own simple fare. And they would then have acquired the perspective and the true sense of values which mean content.

Hardly Cheerful Greeting

A large number of travelers never actually see the beautiful scenery and monuments whose pictures they send home on post cards. One card showing a photograph of a vista in Pere la Chaise cemetery read: "Having a lovely time. Wish you were here!"

A Difference

The difference between a failure and a successful man is rather aptly illustrated by the fact that while the failure is doubting whether a thing can be done, the successful man is going ahead doing it.—Philadelphia Inquirer.

ty zones are being marked by buttons in San Francisco and sts driving on main thoroughrom the Ferry to Ocean Beach nd these islands of safety for ians more plainly visible.

acing of the "white lines" is way at 250 of the busiest inions and the work of making zones more safe will eventuextended throughout the city. installation is the direct result activities of the special survey ttee on traffic safety initiated this year by the California Automobile Association in coon with the supervisors' traffic ttee, the coroner's office and lice department. Following a of traffic accidents, study of uation disclosed that a large tion of fatalities occurred on ain thoroughfares, Geary, Mis-Valencia and Fulton streets, and the first three of these are being included in the initial installation of safety zone buttons as recommended in the emergency survey committee report.

Motorists are warned by the San Francisco police department that cutting through safety zones over these buttons constitutes a dangerous practice. The buttons will bruise tires and may cause old tires to blow out. The motorist hitting them is inviting accident.

Upward to ten buttons are being used around three sides of each safety zone for the guidance of motorists and the protection of pedestrians. Four buttons are being placed close together on the approach side, two with red reflectors to increase visibility at night.

That great comedian, W. C. Fields, will be seen in "It's the Old Army Game" at the State Theatre next Saturday (tomorrow.) This is considered one of Fields' best pictures, and you should not fail to see it.

IT'S ALL IN THE STATE OF MIND

If you think you are beaten, you are;
If you think you dare not, you don't;
If you think you'd like to win but you can't,
It's always a "cinch" you won't;
If you think you'll lose, you've lost;
For out in the world you'll find
Success begins with a fellow's will;
It's all in the state of mind.

Full many a race is lost
Ere even a race is run;
And many a coward fails
Ere even his work's begun.
Think big, and your deeds will grow;
Think small and you fall behind;
Think that you can, and you will;
It's all in the state of mind.

If you think you're outclassed, you are;
You've got to think high to rise;
You've got to be sure of yourself before
You even can win a prize.
Life's battle does not always go
To the stronger or faster man;
But sooner or later, the man who wins
Is the fellow who thinks he can.

BOYS AND GIRLS

Margaret Helen O'Brien, of Chicago, was adjudged the brightest student among 2,000 convent school girls in Illinois and Indiana, and was awarded a four year college scholarship.

Norman Peixotto, 15-year-old San Francisco boy, attacked and twice pulled under the water supposedly by a shark, managed to escape to shore with severe, though not serious, lacerations of hands and legs.

Near Boone, Iowa, a great new railroad bridge has just been named for Kate Shelley, who several years ago at the age of 15 flagged a passenger train and prevented its plunging into the river when the old bridge had been carried away in a flood.

Although he lost his left hand when a child, Herbert Rhoades of Huntsville, Missouri, is the star athlete of his high school, excelling in tennis, football and basketball.

Hilda Dean, of Casey, Illinois, won the world's school typewriting championship by writing 76 words a minute. The professional record is 136 words a minute.

Louise Breazeale, of San Diego, aged 4, won the beauty contest prize for children at a contest held in that city.

ISN'T IT THE TRUTH?

W. R. Penny, advertising manager of the San Francisco Call, says that community building is the modern business man's most important duty. No man can selfishly think of his own business interest alone and achieve his fullest success. As his community grows, so will his business grow. The two are inseparable.

If a man cannot be interested enough to get enthusiastic and put his shoulders back of his community's needs, he had better "pull out" and start in some other place that he is "sold on."

In every successful town and city in the West and on the Pacific Coast you will find a live, hard-working bunch of business men who place "community spirit" alongside or in front of their own business needs.

And in other towns where opportunity is just as great yet progress is not so evident, you will find a lack of this "community spirit" is what is holding the town back.

PREVENTIVE DENTISTRY

By Dr. W. J. Lantheaume

Eruption—(Baby Has a New Tooth)

"Hooray! Baby has a new tooth!" Isn't he cute? She's just the darlingest little squeezums.

Such are the phrases of enthusiasm due to newness. But stop! Think! Like new automobiles, baby's tooth needs daily attention. There are in all twenty "baby teeth," ten in each arch (jaw). The following table is worth while memorizing:

Eruption

1. Lower centrals (lower front teeth) 6 to 9 months.
2. Upper centrals and laterals (upper front teeth 4 of them) 8 to 10 months.
3. Lower laterals and first molar (second tooth on either side from center line or front of mouth) first molar, first large crusher, 15 to 21 months.
4. Canines (cuspids look like eye teeth, one on either side), 16 to 20 months.
5. Second molars (second crusher), 20 to 24 months.

Eruption commences about seventh month after birth, completed about second year. Teeth of lower jaw preceed upper.

Subject to considerable variations, at age of one year child should have 6 teeth; at age of one and one-half years, 12 teeth; at age of two years, 16 teeth; and at age of two and one-half years, 20 teeth.

Unlike the books on the shelf, read, study and learn the approximate years of "baby-deciduous tooth" eruption until you can commit to memory. Then when you can say it with music, pin it on the wall for future reference.

Why should you learn when to expect "baby's teeth?" Because it will safeguard health, promote dental economy, and save your loved ones some very hideous malformation. (Malformation of dentition: a conjenital abnormality of arch (jaw) or teeth.) It just means the condition is not normal.

If you cut your finger, I mean a real cut, what do you do? Hold it down low and then rub it in the dirt? No, you instinctively use pressure above the cut, wash it thoroughly, use clean sterile bandage and protect that finger from loss of blood, infection, and further injury.

Now, baby cuts a tooth. I ask you, what's your next move? Are you going to rub "Precious" in the dirt or bandage the little bundle of joy in sterile gauze of knowledge, "Preventative Dentistry," under the supervision of your family dentist.

Prevention! I wonder if you know or realize the magnitude of prevention.

Prevention (positive) — Economy, health, happiness, contentment (peace of mind), efficiency, success.

Lack of prevention (negative)—Added expense, sickness, disease, sorrow, discontentment, discrepancy, failure.

NEWS NOTES OF PERSONAL INTEREST

By MARTHA WORST

Fred John, of 428 Santa Barbara avenue, has returned from the Franklin hospital.

Mrs. Romer's party last week was very well attended and a good time was had by all.

A Thanksgiving dance is to be held at Jefferson Union high school on November 24. It is an invitation affair.

Please save your dates and dimes for Tuesday evening, December 14. The Pershing teachers are out for both.

Walter White made a trip over to Tiburon last Sunday, but reports that the fishing in that vicinity was nothing to boast of.

Acting as hostess, the Jefferson P. T. A. is entertaining the County Federation P. T. A. this afternoon at the Jefferson Union high school.

Eddie White, Daly City lightweight, defeated Joe Powell in the six round main event at Forman's Arena, San Jose, last Tuesday night.

H. F. Fellows has begun the construction of a four room house at 972 Hanover street.

Mrs. Ida Doyle, of 40 Shakespeare street, is giving a recital for her music pupils this Friday evening.

The soccer game scheduled between the Jefferson Union high school team and Sequoia has been temporarily postponed.

Larry Vireno, a former member of the Jefferson Union high school soccer squad, is now playing on the Junior College team.

There will be a whist party at Eagles Hall on Tuesday, November 23, given by the P. T. A. of Jefferson Union high school.

A whist game will be held at Eagles' Hall next Monday afternoon. Game starts at 2 p. m. sharp. Score cards 25 cents.

The gas and service station formerly operated by Giacomio Calcagno, located at 6252 Mission street, has been taken over by G. H. Gilson, of Daly City.

The Sophomore and Freshman girls' soccer teams had an exciting contest Thursday afternoon.

Jefferson Union high school will have a girls' play day December 4. It's going to be good. Be sure to see it.

"The Scarlet Saint," featuring Mary Astor and Lloyd Hughes, will be the feature picture at the State Theatre next Friday. This is a picture you can not afford to miss.

The girls' basketball team of the Freshman class of Jefferson Union high school played the Freshman team of South San Francisco last Tuesday. South San Francisco won.

A most enjoyable event of the week was the Order of DeMolay whist party last Wednesday evening at the home of Mrs. S. A. Landini. There was a large crowd in attendance and all enjoyed the occasion to the utmost.

Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Glaze, of 31 Gambetta street, who have been visiting at Santa Cruz for the past six weeks, have returned to Daly City. They report having had a splendid time on their vacation.

Starting Saturday, November 27, the new serial, "Fighting with Buffalo Bill," will begin at the State Theatre. Come Saturday and see the opening episode. There will be something special for the kiddies, so don't miss it.

Mr. and Mrs. H. Fellows, of 455 Niantic avenue, are the proud parents of a 10 pound baby boy, born at St. Luke's hospital, Sunday night. Both mother and child are doing well, and Horace is just about the happiest man in Daly City.

The Ladies' Auxiliary of Company No. 4, Daly City Volunteer Fire Department, were entertained at the home of Mrs. P. Ross, Thursday evening. The evening was spent in discussion and music after a most interesting meeting.

The Sunshine Club met at Mrs. Maud Smith's home yesterday, doing philanthropy work in the morning. A dainty lunch was served and the afternoon was spent in playing whist. The funds derived are to be used for Sunshine work.

Five pins and six certificates were awarded to the typing students of Miss Robinson's class, Jefffferson Union high school, for fifteen minute tests, for the last two months. The students thus rewarded were Beulah Womack, Susan McKeown, Viola Rehaume, Fred Rohl and Ralph Riches.

Horace F. Fellows this week sold the new four room house at 948 Hanover street to M. L. Sanders, foreman for W. C. Nelson, the painter. Mr. and Mrs. Sanders formerly resided in San Francisco, but are well known here and will be welcomed as residents of Daly City.

There will be a special Thanksgiving program at the State Theatre on Thanksgiving day, November 25, when James Oliver Curwood's "When the Door Opened" will be presented for the first time in this section. The doors will open at 1 p. m., and the show will be continuous until 11 p. m.

The Daly City Community Sunday school entertained the scholars of the primary classes at supper on Wednesday, November 17. Keen enjoyment was manifested in the games arranged by Miss F. McLean, Miss M. Mills and Miss M. Junker. The Sunday school desires to thank all who helped to make this party such a delightful time for the little ones.

DECEMBER 15 WILL BE PARENT-TEACHER DAY

The California Congress of Parents and Teachers is planning to make December 15 "Parent-Teacher" day at the Southern California conference on modern parenthood, which will be held in Los Angeles, December 15-17.

The state board will meet in Los Angeles, December 14, morning and afternoon, in Parlor D, Chamber of Commerce, and evening at Hotel Figueroa. There will be round tables at breakfast December 15, a morning spent at the conference, a luncheon at Hotel Biltmore at 12:30 in honor of state and national officers who are on the conference program, and an afternoon at the conference over which Mrs. F. O. McColloch, the state president, will preside. From 4 to 6 p. m., the state congress will keep open house in the state office in the Chamber of Commerce building.

Not only state boaord members, but all Parent-Teacher members are urged to help make the conference, luncheon and reception on December 15 an outstanding success, and a real Parent-Teacher day.

On the conference program appear not only the state president of the Congress, but Dr. Elizabeth Wood, state chairman of mental hygiene; Dr. Dunshee, state physical director; Dr. Baird Baldwin, national manager of the Bureau of Child Development; Dr. Fraklin Williams, former national chairman of hygiene; Dr. Miriam Van Waters, national chairman of Juvenile Protection, and Will C. Wood, state superintendent of public instruction.

"Out ide the Law," a picture the main scenes of which are laid in San Francisco, will be presented at the State Theatre next Monday and Tuesday. Lon Chaney and Priscilla Dean have the principal roles in this picture, which is highly recommended by all who have seen it.

CITY CONTEST SPURS TEACHING OF PIANO

A new method of stimulating interest in piano instruction was successfully inaugurated in the recent piano playing contest in Detroit, Mich. Some 15,000 students in the local schools took part in the contest, and out of those were chosen seven district winners who participated in the finals.

That the contest increased the amount of piano teaching in the city was shown by the fact that one teacher had received sixty-one new pupils during the two months, and of those fifty-eight had never before had musical instruction. Another teacher had gained fifty-five pupils, of whom forty-seven were beginners. The contest also meant much to music in the home as shown by the purchase of a second piano by one mother in order that her four daughters might freely practice for their entry in the contest.

The piano contest idea is spreading to other cities.

LEGION TO RENEW FIGHT FOR UNIVERSAL DRAFT MEASURE

Heartened by the utterance of President Coolidge at Kansas City on Armistice day, the officials of the American Legion, according to word received by State Adjutant James K. Fisk, will renew its fight for the passage of the proposed universal draft bill at the next regular session of Congress.

"There is no hope for the Capper-Johnson universal draft bill at the coming short session, but we shall be prepared to renew our efforts at the next regular session," Fisk declares in discussing the American Legion's move for a bill which would give Congress in time of war power to mobilize all resources, both of material and man power.

An all star cast in "A Little Girl in a Big City" is the main feature of the program at the State Theatre for next Wednesday. In addition will be Eddie's Advershow, of fun that has been pleasing patrons for some time.
